

Science, Education and Innovations in the Context of Modern Problems (SEI)

Sci. Educ. Innov. Context Mod. Probl.

Science, Education and Innovations in the Context of Modern Problems (SEI) is an international, peer-reviewed, open-access academic journal that publishes cutting-edge research in the fields of science, education, technology, innovation, and interdisciplinary studies. Established in 2018, the journal operates under the umbrella of IMCRA, demonstrating a strong commitment to academic excellence, rigorous research ethics, and global accessibility. SEI fosters interdisciplinary dialogue and emphasizes the dynamic interplay between science, educational development, and technological innovation. The journal prioritizes research that addresses contemporary global and regional challenges, promoting evidence-based solutions to advance knowledge and societal progress.

Science, Education and Innovations in the Context of Modern Problems is an international, peer-reviewed academic journal that publishes original research at the intersection of science, education, and innovation. The journal promotes the practical application of scientific and technological advancements—particularly within educational systems—and welcomes interdisciplinary studies that are original, relevant, and impactful. In addition to education-focused research, the journal provides a platform for scholarly work in the social sciences, pedagogical sciences, and technical disciplines, with a special emphasis on energy, robotics, and other fields driving innovation. The journal is published entirely in English, with select articles also available in French to engage a broader international readership.

Focus

The primary aim of Science, Education and Innovations in the Context of Modern Problems is to foster the integration of science, technology, and education—particularly by promoting the application of cutting-edge scientific and technological innovations in educational and societal contexts.
